Conference on:

Linguistic Discourse:

Comprehension – Reading production

Tuesday, December 16th 2025

at University of Jijel

Conference President:

Dr Abdelhamide Boukabache

Conference Theme

Linguistic discourse is almost relinquishing its primary position in contemporary communication processes, in favor of expressive visual icons that convey meaning. The rapid advancement of technology and its deep infiltration into the details of social life seem to be leading toward a growing weakness in linguistic expression, in favor of pictorial icons — as if it were a revival of Egyptian hieroglyphs, representing ideas through visual images rather than through auditory images in natural language (sound/idea).

The finest type of discourse is the one that generates opinions and interpretations, where explanation and counter-explanation are balanced, where no final words ever uttered. It is the kind of discourse that provokes its reader to respond, either with agreement or opposition, yet cannot be fully defended nor definitively refuted. It is a discourse whose meaning becomes enriched throughout its historical trajectory. This is why it became necessary to discuss the issue of discourse through history, to see where it draws its meaning and richness: from the culture of its commentators, from its cultural environment, or from its successive historical course.

Conference Objectives:

- ☐ Highlighting some transformations in linguistic discourse in the context of digital transformation.

- ☐ Emphasizing the importance of linguistic discourse in cognitive and creative processes.
- ☐ Exploring mechanisms of understanding and the multiplicity of interpretations in linguistic discourse.
- ☐ Opening horizons for discussion on the future of linguistic discourses.
